Who are we?

The QA team at Shareworks by Morgan Stanley are beyond the bug. We are creators and builders who are shaping the best online platform for our industry. We are vocal contributors when our stories are created, and we are automators who know that there is always a better way to do the tough tasks and we make sure our individuals adding code feel safe when they do so. We are a team of including new grads, twenty-year vets, domain experts, automation specialists, and anything else you can think of. The one thing we aren't is boring. We are karate practitioners, part time app developers, salsa dancers, speed runners and Mom and Dads to amazing families. Beyond that we are a QA family that knows the trade and respects and relies on one another to make sure that each one of us achieves beyond what we think is possible each and every day.

- A sense of humour and good aim with a Nerf gun

- Be customer focused – learn about the business to help bring value to our customers
- Act technology driven – design, implement, and test new functionality, explore
- Work closely with Dev they are executors of our amazing plans
